SCAR

Background and brief history

1974 Regulation of the EU Council; Coordination of agricultural research in scope of the Common Agricultural Policy

“...the most appropriate way of developing cooperation is to set up a Committee consisting of representative Member States and presided over by a representative of the Commission which could usefully help and advise the Commission in carrying out the tasks which devolve upon it in the field of the coordination of research in agriculture”

2005 Revised mandate Committee moved from EC DG AGRI to DG RTD Coordination and collaboration with KBBE-NET (Knowledge-Based Bio-Economy Network)

Focus expanded from research supporting agricultural production to research supporting a multifunctional sustainable agriculture, taking into account wider environmental and societal issues

SCAR

Background and brief history

2011 Evolution into a “New SCAR” Emcompassing the whole bioeconomy including:

- Forestry
- Fisheries and aquaculture
- Food production and processing chain
- Non-food biomass development for industrial products and processes

2015 Reflection Paper on the Role of the SCAR

Meeting the challenges:
adapting to a changing landscape

“Continuing the current approach – a resource constrained evolution of SCAR in response to a changing landscape towards a stronger strategic role based on the availability of more resources”

SCAR

Background and brief history

2015 Committee of 37 EU Member States and observers from Candidate and Associated Countries

SCAR Strategic Working Groups:

- ARCH
- AKIS
- Bioeconomy

4. Improved overall organisation, communication and dissemination of SCAR activities, outputs and outcomes for greater impact

CASA, Support to SCAR

CASA – Support to SCAR

1. Increased and broadened participation, interaction and collaboration

- Study on representation and inclusion in SCAR bodies

SCAR offers a unique and highly valued platform for exchange, discussion, best practices and learning between states, and between states and the European Commission

SCAR is a platform where this open exchange builds trust between partners and thus directly contributes to ‘making Europe work’

Participating in SCAR is not only beneficial at the policy level, but also a way to stimulate European research cooperation

BUT: Representation and inclusion pose tangible and intangible challenges that need to be addressed

CASA – Support to SCAR

1. Increased and broadened participation, interaction and collaboration

- Conference „Research and innovation policy, state-of-play and the role of SCAR in the European Bioeconomy” on Representativeness and SWOT: December 4-6th, 2017 in Tallinn, Estonia
